DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5, 11, 12, 14, 19, 20, 22, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Darras 5,817,433.

The cited prior art discloses a cut and puncture resistant surgical glove and its composition and method of making. The composition comprises particulate material of powders of metal compounds such silicon carbide coated in polymeric material so as to form aggregates of microspheres coated in polymer, thereby forming macropsheres. The composition id molded to form articles such as surgical gloves. See the abstract, Figure 2, and column 2.

2. Claims 1-6, 11-15, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Oakley et al 6,080,474.

This prior art discloses polymeric articles such as surgical gloves having improved cut-resistance, and comprising hard filler material which may be round-shaped, in a coating of polymeric material. Examples of the filler material include alumina, iron, and metal alloys. The filler is added to the polymer by conventional methods such as by mixing the filler with molten polymer under conditions sufficient to provide a uniform distribution of the filler in the polymer, such as by extrusion in a twin-screw extruder. See columns 4, 5, 7, and 8.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-10, 16-22, and 24-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oakley et '474.

The cited prior art discussed supra teaches that polymer used in making the composite surgical glove may be a polyolefin such as PE, and the coated filler may be a round-shaped metal such as claimed in an array(s) of coated fillers which obviously forms macrospheres. See columns 4-5, and 7-8. It is the Examiner's position that the formation of puncture resistant materials such as claimed would have been obvious based on the disclosures of the cited prior art.
